

NC TEACH II

Information Sheet

To aid in improving North Carolina student achievement, NC TEACH is thrilled to offer NC TEACH II, funded by a U.S. Department of Education Transition to Teaching grant. The TTT program supports projects that recruit highly qualified mid-career professionals, retirees and recent college graduates as teachers for high-need school districts.

NC TEACH II is working with school districts and charter schools identified by the U.S. Department of Education as high-need in order to recruit and prepare lateral entry teachers who are committed to remaining in a high-need school for a minimum of three years. In return for this commitment, the teacher will receive a $1000 education stipend and a $2000 technology allowance (or laptop computer).

Join NC TEACH II to ensure all students achieve academic success despite the challenges and inequities they may face in North Carolina's high-need schools.

Host Universities

There are several participating host universities and they offer a variety of delivery models so you may take your coursework face to face, online or in a blended format. Please visit the website for host university profiles.

Licensure Areas Available

Most positions in the high-need schools will be in either Middle Grades or High School and most will be in the area of math, science or special education. The following is a list of all licensure areas allowable for this grant project:

- Math
- Science
- Special Education
- English/Language Arts
- Reading
- History/Social Studies
- Foreign Languages
- English as a Second Language
- Arts

Application Process

Please follow the application instructions for each host university on our website.

Who is eligible to participate in NC TEACH II?

- You must be accepted into the general NC TEACH program at one of the participating NC TEACH II host universities.
- You must obtain employment or be employed as a 1st year lateral entry teacher by an eligible high-need school district or charter school.
- You must be committed to remaining in an eligible high-need school for no less than 3 years and show this commitment by signing a Letter of Intent.

What school districts and charter schools are eligible to participate in this project?

Each year all school districts and charter schools in North Carolina are evaluated according to Title II, Part A legislation which includes factors such as poverty rates and number of teachers teaching out of their licensure field. A current list of the school districts and charter schools considered high-need and eligible for this project is released each year in September or October and is available on the website.
